Objectives and Investment Policy

The Manager aims to provide to the Investors of the Compartment with attractive returns over the short to medium term by investing the Compartment's raised capital in equity and equity derivatives, mainly Listed Equity Instruments and OTC CFDs on Equities. The Compartment's quantitative strategy has been constructed in such a way that will enable its Investors to seize high return opportunities with as much elimination of risks exposure as possible. This will be mainly implemented through a diversification exposure using a quantitative model built on a Big Data Analysis for signal generation. The Compartment shall invest in a manner so as to capitalize on its position as a Quant Fund, the size of its Portfolio, and its ability to achieve diversification. The investment Portfolio of the Compartment is to be invested, managed, and sold in a prudent manner for the sole benefit of the Compartment, in accordance with any applicable statutes. The Compartment's active long-only strategy, being an absolute return strategy, aims also to avoid any negative annual returns. The Compartment's Benchmark is Eurekahedge Long-Only Absolute Return Fund Index. (Bloomberg Ticker - EHF11). The Compartment aims to implement a quantitative absolute return investment strategy, which is uncorrelated with the macroeconomic environment, by leveraging the power of AI and Big Data Analysis to generate signals of stocks that have the high potential to build a price momentum over a short period of time and will enable it to seize any opportunities that can provide to its Investors high returns with less risk, create prestigious reputation and obtain a broad market clientele. To manage the Compartment, large amounts of Market Data are analyzed as part of a "big data" approach. Proprietary software programs are used to assess and filter the data volumes. Combined with other information, trade signals are triggered. These trade signals form the basis of the investment decision made by the portfolio managers for the investment of the Compartment. As a rule, the Compartment will invest its assets in Listed Equities and OTC CFDs on Equities, while always staying within the leverage limits set out above (Max 200% of NAV). Although the Compartment is not constrained in terms of asset allocation per single issuer or geographical or sectoral allocations, the portfolio managers will strive to put in place a systematic approach to Asset Allocation by equally weighing all Portfolio positions according to Market conditions, thus achieving Risk diversification, and eliminating allocation bias as much as possible. The Compartment may invest up to 100% of its Assets in cash, cash equivalent, money market instruments and OTC financial derivatives instruments for liquidity management purposes according to market conditions and in order to adjust the Compartment's cash flow levels. The Compartment shall not invest in Equity securities representing ownership and control over private companies. The Compartment may invest up to 10% of its Assets in other AIFs or UCIs. What are the risks and what could I get in return?

The SRI is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 4 out of 7 which is a 'medium' risk category. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium level and poor market conditions could impact the capacity to pay you. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.

The following are additional risks materially relevant and not covered by the risk and reward category:

- Single Country Risk

The risk of investing or having exposure in only one country will have greater exposure to market, political, legal, economic and social risks of that country.

The risk of loss resulting from fluctuation in the market value of positions in the portfolio attributable to changes in market variables, such as interest rates, foreign exchange rates, equity and commodity prices or an issuer's creditworthiness.

- Operational and Safekeeping Risks

The risk of loss resulting from inadequate internal processes and failures in relation to people and systems of the External Manager or from external events, and includes legal and documentation risk and risk resulting from the trading, settlement, safekeeping and valuation procedures.
